Empire
Wicked Tongue of Raven

A coiled mesure
of old skin and bone blossoms in the desert. And the raven speaks
in the temple.

In a thicket of sky and century
of knives, his harlot
is thrown down to join him.

Seven coins in my pocket and moon in my house, I drown
in this sea set before
me.